RED AUERBACH

PRESIDENT

Arnold "Red" Auerbach once proclaimed: "The Boston Celtics are not a basketball team, they are a way of life." Auerbach, a member of the National Basketball Association since its formation in 1946, has been with the Celtics since 1950. He, like the Celtics, are a way of life.

Auerbach spent the first three seasons of his pro career with the Washington Capitols before moving on to the Tri-Cities Hawks for one campaign. At this point, Walter Brown, who owned the struggling Boston Celtics, appointed Auerbach as the man to lead the squad into what would become the greatest franchise in pro basketball annals.

Auerbach carefully crafted a competitive team and his moves culminated with an April 29, 1956 transaction that sent Ed Macauley and Cliff Hagan to St. Louis for the Hawks first-round pick; the Celtics chose Bill Russell. This blockbuster trade would spur the Celtics into the most dominant franchise in pro basketball history and helped spawn the legend that is Auerbach and the Celtics. From 1950-1966, Auerbach coached the Celtics to nine world titles including eight in succession from 1959-1966.

His incredible record was 938-479 (.662) in regular season play and an equally impressive 99-69 (.589) in postseason encounters. Starting with the 1966-67 season, the "coach" removed himself from the bench in order to concentrate on his duties as General Manager and appointed Bill Russell as player-coach.

With Red's guidance and knowledge, the Celtics continued to win. In 1968 and 1969, the Celtics added two more titles. But after a down period in the early 1970's, Auerbach restructured the team adding key personnel through trades and the draft, and ultimately raised banners in 1974 and 1976.

It was after these years that Auerbach would have his toughest test, as the late 70's were a dismal period for the Celtics. Yet, Auerbach once again saved the franchise with the shrewd selection of Larry Bird in the 1978 draft. Although he would have to wait a year before Bird could play in the NBA, Auerbach sensed that the Indiana-native was the man to rejuvenate the proud organization. Five other teams had a shot at Bird, but all passed.

In 1981, Boston became the NBA champions again as Auerbach orchestrated another amazing trade, as he dealt the first and thirteenth picks in the 1981 draft to Golden State for Robert Parish and the third overall pick (Kevin McHale). Boston added titles in 1984 and 1986 thanks to the master's keen additions of Danny Ainge, Dennis Johnson, Bill Walton and others.

Auerbach has been the recipient of numerous distinguished awards and honors throughout his career. In 1968, he was enshrined in the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, MA for all his successes. When the NBA chose its Silver Anniversary Team honoring the best of the league's first 25 years, Red was chosen as coach of that distinguished team. In 1982, he was elected to the Washington Hall of Stars, a Hall of Fame which involves people from all sports. Red was also honored as NBA Coach of the Year in 1965, a trophy that now bears his name, and NBA Executive of the Year in 1980. Also, in that year, he was selected to the NBA's 35th Anniversary Team as "Greatest Coach in the History of the NBA," by the PBWAA.

In 1985, The Red Auerbach Fund, the establishment of a fund in the great coach's name, was created to promote athletic, recreational and other youth development activities in Boston and throughout the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. January 4, 1985 will always be a special day in Red's heart and in Boston sports history as the Celtics' family saluted its patriarch by having the number two retired in his honor (emblematic as the second most important person in the organization's annals, founder Walter Brown has the number 1). Nine months later, September 20, 1985 (Red's 68th birthday), a life-size sculpture of Auerbach was unveiled and placed in Boston's notorious Faneuil Hall Marketplace so the public would have a lasting tribute to this basketball genius and legend.

He has received seven honorary degrees from various institutions. Red values such honors so much that he kept a previous commitment to American International College by delivering their commencement speech although it required him to be a no-show in the Boston Garden for the May 22, 1988 deciding game in the Celtics-Hawks best-of-seven thriller. AIC presented Auerbach with a Doctor of Humanities Honorary Degree. A week earlier, May 15, he received a Doctor of Arts Honorary Degree from Stonehill College. He has also received Honorary Doctorate Degrees in Humane Letters from Franklin Pierce College May 24, 1981, the University of Massachusetts (Boston) in 1982, and from Boston University May 13, 1984. In 1986, Central New England College honored him with an Honorary Doctorate Degree in Business Administration. February 14, 1993, his alma mater, George Washington, bestowed an honorary Doctorate of Public Service Degree.

Red is the author of five books. His first, Basketball for the Player, the Fan and Coach, has been translated into seven languages and is the largest-selling basketball book in print. His second book, Winning the Hard Way, was co-authored with Paul Sann. Then came the first of two publications written in conjunction with Joe Fitzgerald, Red Auerbach: An Autobiography was the title of that book. The more recent publication is, Red Auerbach On and Off the Court. In October, 1991, Auerbach's latest book, M.B.A.: Management by Auerbach was co-authored with Ken Dooley. In 1987, an excellent instructional video entitled, Winning Basketball, became available to the public featuring the insight, thoughts and philosophy of Red and three-time NBA Most Valuable Player and Celtics' captain Larry Bird.

Born in Brooklyn, New York, Red attended Eastern District High School in that city, and attended Seth Low Junior College in New York and George Washington University in the District of Columbia. He played three years of college basketball at GW, and was the team's leading scorer and defensive specialist. He received a Bachelor of Science in Education in 1940 from GW and a Master of Arts in Education from GW the following year.

Red (9/20/17) and his wife Dorothy live in Washington, D.C. The couple, married since 1941, are the proud parents of two daughters, Nancy, who is Executive Assistant to the Director of House Postal Operations and is married to CNN anchorman Reid Collins, and Randy, who is Vice-President of Creative Affairs for Blue Tulip Productions in Hollywood. Red and Dorothy have one granddaughter, Julie, a housewife and student at GW, who was recently married to Eric Fleiger. Red and Dorothy are also expecting their first great-grandson in September.

JAN VOLK

EXECUTIVE VICE-PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MANAGER

The Boston Celtics have a legendary existence, one that is nearly unequalled in the world of professional sports and undeniably incomparable in basketball annals. In order for that prosperity to flow on the floor, behind-the-scenes executives are needed for proper guidance. In Jan Volk, the team has a passionate leader who maintains a rare devotion for the city of Boston and the thousands of Celtics' supporters.

Entering his 25th year with the Celtics and his twelfth as General Manager, Volk has been an instrumental figure in molding teams which have a record, since 1979, of 866-446 (.660) and have collected ten Atlantic Division titles, five Eastern Conference crowns, and three NBA Championship titles. Furthermore, the 1986 club, which he was a key architect, is universally applauded as one of the greatest teams in basketball annals. He has made many player transactions that have strengthened the Celtics, and in some cases those moves have led to confounding reactions from baffled rivals. Volk is accountable for the acquisitions, contractual negotiations, renegotiations, and ultimate signings of all current Celtics' players.

Volk has a well-deserved reputation as an authority on the NBA salary cap, which is a unique system of checks and balances designed to manage the escalating costs of players salaries in step with overall league revenues.

A native of Davenport, Iowa, Volk grew up in Newton, MA attending Newton North High School. He graduated from Colby College in 1968 and received his Law Degree from Columbia University in 1971. After passing the Massachusetts Bar Exam in June of 1971, he began his full-time employment with the Celtics.

Starting as Director of Ticket Sales, Volk gradually broadened his areas of responsibility and experience. He took over the team's equipment purchases and travel arrangements, before becoming Business Manager. Slowly, he began to convince Auerbach that his legal expertise could be utilized in the negotiating and drafting of player contracts. In 1974, Volk became the team's Legal Counsel and in 1976 he was named Vice-President of the club. In 1981, he assumed the additional responsibilities of Assistant General Manager before the promotion to his existing post July 11, 1984.

Volk has also served on two very key selection committees: the 1992 United States Olympic Basketball Team (Dream Team I) and the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, MA where he supported the appointments of many of the game's monumental performers.

Jan and his wife Lissa have two children: Shari (6/21/76) and Matthew (11/20/80); the family lives in Wayland, MA. Jan approaches his various hobbies, furniture-building, photography, and US and European history, with the same intensity as his management of the Celtics.

M.L. CARR

EXECUTIVE VICE-PRESIDENT, DIRECTOR OF BASKETBALL OPERATIONS, AND HEAD COACH

The 1995-96 Boston Celtics will have a new floor general as Executive Vice-President and Director of Basketball Operations M.L. Carr assumes the role of Head Coach of the 16-time World Champions. The June 20, 1995 designation makes Carr the twelfth man to serve as Celtics' Head Coach.

"I am really looking forward to the challenge," said Carr. "This dual role is unique in NBA circles; I can evaluate talent from a coaching and managerial position and, thus, fully comprehend the needs of this team as we head into the second half of this decade."

The squad will attempt to add to the tradition, the pride, and the mystique that previous entries formulated during 49 years of play in the Boston Garden; the unit will baptize the new state-of-the-art FleetCenter as that building replaces the Garden as the Celtics' home.

The spirited Carr, playing a key role on the Celtics 1981 and 1984 NBA World Champions, was one of the most popular players in the franchise's magnificent history. He was named Executive Vice-President and Director of Basketball Operations for the organization June 14, 1994 and he oversees the entire basketball operations area.

From his days as an enthusiastic player who always understood the commitment to winning, Carr was the epitome of Celtics' Pride throughout his playing days.

Carr has a distinctive approach to not only basketball but more importantly life: "If the young people have any doubts that their dreams and aspirations cannot happen, I have two examples to dispute that. Red Auerbach gave me the opportunity to play here and Paul Gaston provided me with the chance to run the organization. I love the Celtics, their fans, and the people of New England."

Carr played with the Celtics from 1979 through 1985 and averaged 6.3 points in 363 regular season contests. Additionally, he recorded 5.1 points in 64 playoff encounters including his position on championship teams in 1981 and 1984. Upon retirement, Carr was a member of the team's scouting department before becoming Director of Community Relations commencing in 1991.

M.L. signed with the Celtics as a free agent in September, 1979. In a complicated compensation settlement with the Detroit Pistons, the Celtics gave up Bob McAdoo in return for the signing of Carr plus the Celtics received from the Pistons two 1980 first round draft picks (both of which were later conveyed by Boston to Golden State in the incredible Robert Parish-Kevin McHale move).

Under his direction, the Community Relations Department executed numerous district programs including the Stay In School Program which rewarded students with perfect attendance and taught youngsters the value of sports through the curriculum of their study.

Michael Leon (1/9/51) and his wife Sylvia have three children: Michael, Janine, and Andrea; the family lives in Weston, MA.

LARRY BIRD

SPECIAL ASSISTANT

It was August 18, 1992 when Larry Bird, the player, disclosed that he had retired from the NBA after 13 seasons due to persistent back woes; it was also on that date that special assistant Larry Bird was born. The intelligence he so habitually exhibited while playing demanded a managerial role in the basketball operations domain.

Drafted by the Celtics as a junior eligible with the sixth pick in the 1978 draft, Bird immediately dominated the game in 1979-80, his rookie season, when he was named the league's Rookie of the Year after sparking the Celtics to the greatest one-season turnaround in league history (a 32-win improvement). He has a most impressive resume: 12 all-star berths (including MVP in 1982), 10 All-NBA teams, three all-defensive teams, three regular season MVP awards, and two playoff MVP awards, and the primary component in league titles in 1981, 1984, and 1986.

In 1986, perhaps Bird's best, he was chosen The Sporting News' Man of the Year, Associated Press Male Athlete of the Year, and NBA MVP in both the regular season and playoffs. He also won the long distance shootout at the NBA All-Star Weekend and recorded a triple-double in Boston's Game Six clincher over Houston in the NBA Finals.

Bird also holds several team records, including the most points ever scored by a Celtic in one game, 60, opposing Atlanta March 12, 1985 in New Orleans'

Lakefront Arena. In 1986-87, he became the initial player in NBA chronicles to shoot 50% from the field and 90% from the free throw line in the same season; since, he accomplished the magnificent deed a second time the following season.

At his initial press conference, after signing his first professional contract June 8, 1979, Bird expressed: "I'm not promising anything except that I will give 100 percent every time I go out on the floor, and I'll play team ball. I won't sit on the bench with any broken fingernail." Truer words were never spoken.

Whether it was connecting on buzzer-beaters in successive games in 1985, hitting 71 straight free throws, amazing all by stealing an inbound pass of Isiah Thomas, or reappearing from the locker room after a dangerous fall to the floor in the deciding game of a 1991 playoffs series, Bird dazzled all and always gave 100% no matter the physical liability.

Known for his witty charm, engaging personality and cocky attitude, Bird was never one to balk from a challenge or challenger. Before the 1986 shootout at the NBA All-Star Weekend, Bird informed his competitors: "I told all of the guys before the contest who was going to win. I just wanted to know who was going to come into second."

In his final season, Bird orchestrated one last accomplishment for all to retain in a 54-minute outing against Portland March 15. In that nationally televised double overtime titillating contest, Bird illuminated the Celtics to a 152-148 win with 49 points, including 16 in the fourth quarter, 14 rebounds, 12 assists, 4 steals, and a three-point field goal with two seconds left in regulation to tie the game.

Larry Joe (12/7/56) and his wife Dinah have two children: Connor and Mariah. Bird was born in West Baden, IN and attended high school at Springs Valley in French Lick, IN. He has four brothers and one sister; his mother's name is Georgia. Larry is an avid outdoorsman and has a passion for country music, auto racing, and the St. Louis Cardinals. He owns "Larry Bird's Boston Connection," a hotel/restaurant in Terre Haute, where a street was named in his honor (8/2/84).

BIRD HIGHLIGHTS

College Player of the Year for 1979; graduated as the NCAA's fifth highest all-time scorer.

STUART LAYNE

EXECUTIVE VICE-PRESIDENT OF MARKETING AND SALES

As the 1990's progress into the latter half of the decade, the aspect of marketing a professional sports team can be both precarious and riveting. When that sports team becomes the Boston Celtics, the most legendary franchise in basketball, a very atypical component is added to the situation.

Stuart Layne, Executive Vice-President of Marketing and Sales, is the person primarily responsible for the task of marketing the Celtics. He has to unearth the proper balance between incorporating the team's brilliant history in today's modern environs. Layne's main aspiration is to strengthen the Celtics through a variety of campaigns focused on the fans and the corporate community. Dedicated to preserving the potent image of Celtics' past, Layne will focus his efforts through a concentrated devotion generated to manufacture a contemporary appeal of the Celtics as the team moves into the elaborate FleetCenter.

Promoted to his current position June 7, 1995, Layne served as Vice-President of Planning and Special Events since joining the staff in March, 1994. He oversees corporate sales, promotions, marketing, ticket sales, publicity, and broadcast for the organization.

The native New Yorker received his Bachelor of Science in Communications from the Syracuse University Newhouse School. Layne, who spent twelve years in broadcasting, had on-air jobs at various west coast stations before joining CBS-radio in sales and management positions in New York and Chicago. While in Chicago, he transferred to the CBS-TV Network in sales where he was involved in selling sports, including the NBA. From 1984-1989, Layne was employed at Emmis Broadcasting, where he supervised radio stations in St. Louis, Minneapolis, and New York City. While with Emmis, he was involved in building New York's WFAN-Radio the nation's first all-sports radio station.

Formerly the Seattle Mariners'

Vice-President of Marketing from 1989-1993, Layne formulated innovative promotional and marketing campaigns which transcended to that franchise's all-time attendance records. In 1992, the Mariners' marketing staff received the American Marketing Association's Gold Effie signifying the nation's most effective marketing program in sports and entertainment.

Layne's experience in sports, broadcasting, research, and marketing will be a valuable asset as he oversees the Celtics' operation. Layne, who has a strong grasp of the latest marketing trends and an equally keen interest in the thriving telecommunications field, will attempt to create bold, innovative, and new marketing partnerships.

ASSISTANT COACHES

Don Casey

DON CASEY ASSISTANT COACH

William Shakespeare once wrote: "Some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them"; Don Casey has perfected it. The definitive cosmopolite, Casey's genius is not restricted to the basketball hardwood. He is legendary in all facets of coaching the sport, but is equally lauded for his interests in diverse topics. This season will be the sixth for Casey as an assistant coach with the Boston Celtics, the first as an assistant to M.L. Carr. Casey currently ranks as the senior member of the four-man Celtics' coaching staff.

Among his endeavors away from basketball, his most recent appointment came in 1995 when he was chosen to the Committee of Friends of the Secret Service, an organization dedicated to raising funds for the surviving family members of those federal agents killed in the tragic Oklahoma City bombing.

The world's most eminent edifice, the White House, and its unique constituents, acknowledged Casey's aptitude by selecting him to the President's Council on Fitness and Sport in a 1994 appointment held at the Rose Garden.

Magnificently dedicated to proper physical conditioning, Casey is such a fervent runner that he was a feature subject of "Runner's World" Magazine in the fall of 1992, and is a main client of Reebok International. His representation of Reebok as an international consultant has boosted the image of NBA coaches and he has structured a variety of clinics in the name of goodwill through sundry coaches and players.

In the fall of 1993, Casey received a prominent honor when he was named Vice-President of the NBA Coaches Association in a unanimous tally. The association handles benefits and pension issues of past and present coaches.

Of course, the nucleus of Casey is basketball. As the Head Coach of Temple University from 1973-74 through 1981-82, Casey compiled an impressive record of 151-94 (.616). The Owls finished first or second in the East Coast Conference in his last seven years, and he posted 20 or more wins three times. His 1978-79 squad that finished 25-4 was the school's best mark since the 1957-58 campaign. He was often a consensus choice for coach of the year including twice being voted East Coast Conference Coach of the Year; additionally, he steered Temple to one NCAA postseason tournament and three NIT berths.

Owl's squads to Tokyo, Japan to play UCLA in the first NCAA game ever to be played out of the United States. He also coached an ECAC All-Star team on a tour of Yugoslavia after the 1978-79 season. Casey also developed a reputation in coaching against zone defenses and authored a book on the subject entitled "Temple of Zones."

Casey had the unenviable task of following the legendary Harry Litwack, who coached the Owls for 21 years until January 28, 1973 when Casey was appointed the head man. As Litwack's assistant for six seasons, Casey was a major contributor with the NIT Champions which defeated Bob Cousy's Boston College Eagles in the 1966 championship game; also, he helped secure NCAA berths in 1967, 1970, and 1972.

In 1982-83, Casey entered the NBA ranks as Paul Westhead's assistant with the Chicago Bulls, then held the same role with Jim Lynam's Los Angeles Clippers the following campaign. In 1984-85, Casey departed the NBA for a stint as a Head Coach in Italy; he returned to the Clippers as an assistant under Don Chaney and then Gene Shue for the next three-plus seasons.

Casey replaced Shue as the Clippers' head coach January 19, 1989 and he held that post for the rest of his stay in Los Angeles. Under Casey's direction, the Clippers finished at 30-52 but improved by nine wins from the previous season. The squad had an immodest total of 20 players that season, another accolade in Casey's corner. The Clippers were 41-85 under his heading.

The affable Casey was born in Collingswood, New Jersey, attended high school at Camden Catholic High School in Camden, NJ, and graduated from Temple University in 1960. His first head coaching assignment came at the tender age of 20 at Bishop Eustace High in Pennsauken, New Jersey. He accumulated a striking record at that high school including two state championships. For that achievement, he was selected South Jersey Coach of the Year at the age of 24. His teams compiled a record of 116-38 (.758) and had a 37-game winning streak from 1961 to 1963. Don was President of the South Jersey Coaches Association during the 1963-64 season and many of his players went on to exceptional collegiate careers.

This continental person maintains off-season residence in southern California and mellows to an occasional cup of cappuccino. The refined individual also enjoys fine Italian cuisine with Ciao Bella in Boston his favorite stop.

In addition to his abundant duties with the Stoughton, Massachusetts-based Reebok, Casey consults miscellaneous corporations based in Massachusetts including Bio-Chemicals (Boston), Intermuron (Lexington), Very Fine Juice (Westford), Shooter's Touch (Ipswich), and Duplex Corporation (Salem). Also, Casey works with Ipx Computer Company of Rochester, New Hampshire.

Don (6/17/37) and his wife Dwyne are the proud parents of Lee Ann (7/12/67), Michael (6/6/69), and Sean (8/18/70). One of the best mountain-walking dogs in San Diego County is Kato (4/3/86) the family wonder-dog.

DENNIS JOHNSON ASSISTANT COACH

Webster's defines success as "a favorable or satisfactory outcome or result; the gaining of wealth, fame, rank, etc.; a successful person." Boston Celtics' Assistant Coach Dennis Johnson, one of the greatest guards ever, achieved each of these lofty definitions with a seemingly never-ending potency. He is now in the early stages of carving a niche as a coach.

Upon completion of a dynamic playing career from 1976-1990 with Seattle, Phoenix and Boston, in which his teams won approximately 65% of their games, Johnson remained a member of the Celtics' family as a scout for three seasons until his promotion to a coaching role starting with the 1993-94 campaign.

DJ was drafted by Seattle in the second-round of the 1976 draft as a hardship case, the 29th pick overall. Seattle was the genesis of the Johnson-success equation as he powered the 1979 edition to what remains its lone league championship. Johnson was selected MVP of that series by "doing it all" on both sides of the court. This would be part of a Johnson characteristic for his entire career.

A year later, June 4, 1980 to be exact, he was dealt to Phoenix for former Celtic Paul Westphal. He tallied what would remain his career high of 39 points vs. New York December 15, 1981. Johnson was chosen to the All-NBA Second Team in 1980 and to the All-NBA First Team in 1981. He was a member of the All-Defensive First or Second Team for nine straight seasons, including first team mentions from 1979-83 and in 1987; only Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (11) had a higher total (Bobby Jones was chosen nine times also).

A five-time all-star, DJ played on three NBA World Champions, including 1984 and 1986 with the Celtics, where he spent his final seven seasons. For his unequalled hustle, clutch play and defensive prowess, the Celtics retired Johnson's number 3 December 13, 1991.

In Boston, this brilliant performer produced some of his most memorable moments. Who will forget his buzzer-beating jumper at Los Angeles which evened the 1985 NBA Finals at two apiece? It was his basket, after Larry Bird's famous steal against Detroit in Game Five of the 1987 playoffs, which climaxed an astonishing win with one second left. Johnson attained two rare playoff feats: a four-point play at Milwaukee May 8, 1987 and a triple-double in the series clincher at New York in 1988. He became the eleventh player in NBA history to register 15,000 points and 5,000 assists in a career and when the Celtics battled the mighty Lakers in the 1987 Finals, DJ scored 33 points in the sixth and final game of that series.

An intended pass to Larry Bird instead was recorded as a 75-foot basket in Game Two of the Celtics-Bucks 1986 playoff series. He once registered an NBA Finals-record 12 free throws made in a half June 12, 1984 vs. Los Angeles. In seven seasons in Boston, Johnson missed just one playoff game.

DJ, who did not play high school basketball, attended Los Angeles Harbor Junior College in Wilmington, CA for two years before transferring to Pepperdine where he played one season (1975-76). The charming man has 12 brothers and 3 sisters.

Dennis (9/18/54) and his wife Donna have three children: sons Dwayne (6/6/80) and Daniel (7/29/94) and daughter Denise (2/16/92); the family lives in Lexington, MA.

John Kuester

JOHN KUESTER ASSISTANT COACH

After five seasons as the Video Coordinator/Scout of the Boston Celtics, John Kuester will become a member of the coaching fraternity as he joins Don Casey and Dennis Johnson as assistant coaches to M.L. Carr.

Since 1990-91, Kuester's main role with the Celtics concentrated on preparing the entire basketball operations staff through video in a variety of ways. Examples included furnishing videos to the coaching staff when they held meetings with the players relating to Boston's next opponent and collecting miscellaneous tapes on collegiate projects that proved extremely valuable when the basketball staff huddled prior to draft time. His diverse duties also included scouting collegiate talent and aiding the coaching staff when they had specific demands pertaining to a certain skill of a Celtics' player that needed improvement.

Born in Richmond, Virginia, Kuester was a member of the Benedictine Cadets High School team that won three state championships, in his three varsity seasons, under the guidance of Warren Rutledge.

Kuester held the special pleasure of playing for the legendary Dean Smith and the University of North Carolina from 1973-1977. In his four seasons, the Tar Heels went to four NCAA tournaments, won a pair of Atlantic Coast Conference championships, and went to the NCAA Finals in 1977 against Marquette after defeating powerhouses Kentucky and UNLV to get to the title game. In his senior season, Kuester was voted the team's best defensive player for the second straight campaign and the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament and the NCAA East Regionals.

Kuester earned another honor when he joined the NBA ranks. A third-round draft choice of the Kansas City Kings and the 53rd choice overall in the 1977 NBA Draft, he played in 78 games for that squad in his rookie season. The following season, he appeared in 33 games for the Denver Nuggets and his NBA career concluded with 24 games played for the Indiana Pacers in 1979-80.

He began a lengthy coaching career as an assistant coach at the University of Richmond in 1980-81, followed by a two-year stint as an assistant to Rick Pitino at Boston University from 1981-83. Kuester then became the Terriers' Head Coach in 1983 and he was the youngest Division I head coach during his two-year stint at BU. He then became the Head Coach of George Washington University for the next five seasons before joining the Celtics.

John (2/6/55) and his wife Tricia have two children John III (4/13/87) and Kate-Lyn (6/16/90); the family lives in Medfield, MA. Kuester lists playing tennis and spending quality time with his family as his favorite pastimes.

MEDIA INFORMATION

The Boston Celtics' Public Relations Department consisting of Director of Public Relations Jeff Twiss and Director of Publications and Information David Zuccaro would like to familiarize the working members of the media to some regulations designed to make your job easier. With the change of venue from the Boston Garden to the FleetCenter, inevitably problems will arise. Please contact us should you have any questions. These rules are constructed for your benefit and it is crucial that the pass you are issued is visible on your body AT ALL TIMES when in the FleetCenter.

PRACTICE INFORMATION:

Times: Practices during the regular season are generally set one day in advance. Notices of practices following a home game will be posted at the bottom of the quote sheet from that evening's contest. Periodically, the Celtics will update a voice mail box for pertinent media information (practice times on weekends, injury info, roster moves, etc.). Call 617.523.6050 or 1.800.423.6050 (outside the 617 area code) and then access voice mail box 1123. This number is available 24 hours a day. During nonbusiness hours, hit the 8 button on your phone a couple of seconds into the greeting to pass by the initial voice mail instructions; the next set of instructions will ask you for the mail box number at this point punch in 1123. During normal business hours, it is suggested that you contact Jeff Twiss, David Zuccaro, or a PR intern directly. The Celtics will usually hold practice at Brandeis University in Waltham, MA, but on occasion might utilize the FleetCenter. Directions to Brandeis University from Boston: Take the Southeast Expressway south to Exit 20 (the Mass Pike/Route 90 Exit). Get on the Mass Pike, go to the second set of toll booths at Weston, MA (the first toll booths are in Allston, MA). Go straight to Exit 15/Route 30 from the Weston toll booths. Take a right at the yield sign and proceed approximately 300 yards to a stop light, then turn right. Drive roughly 1/2 mile to the next stop light, then turn left onto River Road. From here, advance nearly 2 miles to the Brandeis University campus (you'll cross over railroad tracks and up a slight hill). The Gosman Sports and Convocation Center will be on your right. Parking: All media members are asked to park in the lot to the right as you enter the driveway. If this is full, parking is available behind the arena next to the tennis courts. Parking pass applications for proper parking clearance can be obtained from Jeff Twiss or Brandeis University Security. Miscellaneous: Total driving distance is about 15 miles and should take 20-25 minutes driving time. At last check, toll costs will be $1.00. Depending on time of day, and travel conditions, a cab ride will cost about $35.00. Interview Rules: Only accredited media will be allowed to attend Celtics' practices as all practices are closed to the general public. Photographers: All photographers must shoot from the sideline adjacent to the running track near the arena floor. Additionally, the coaches' office, the training room, the weight room, the back hallway, and the locker room are off limits to the media at all times.

SEASON CREDENTIALS:

The combined Boston Celtics/Boston Bruins season credentials of the past no longer exist. The Celtics will issue full season passes which will be limited to those members of the media that cover 75% or more of our home games. For those media members who receive this pass, your photo will accompany it. Be advised that this pass is required at each game and display it at all times.

SINGLE-GAME CREDENTIALS:

Media members wishing to cover an individual game must contact Jeff Twiss or David Zuccaro at least 24 hours in advance of those games they wish to cover (or by 5:00 P.M. Friday for all weekend games). Single-game passes will be issued on a space-available basis.

STILL PHOTOGRAPHER AND TELEVISION VIDEOGRAPHERS CREDENTIALS:

Season credentials will not be issued to photographers or television videographers. For those media outlets that cover every game, but with different personnel, one pass per location will be available at the press gate for each game. For example, if the Daily Planet has two photographer positions, there will be two passes marked "Daily Planet Photographer" left for pick-up, upon presentation of proper identification, at the press gate for each game. One videographer pass per television outlet will be available for post-game sound. Credentialed photographers must sit at their designated location at the baseline. Photographers will not be allowed to sit on the sidelines at the FleetCenter, as any area not specified as space for photographers are off limits. No photography of any Celtics' game shall be released to any individual other than the entity for whom the pass was issued and subject to the rules governing such use as described on the reverse side of the credential. Any variation to this policy will result in forfeiture of future credentials. Single game photograph credentials will be issued on a space available basis.

PRESS GATE ENTRANCE:

The press gate will be located on the East Side of the FleetCenter (down the access road between the 150 Causeway Street building and the FleetCenter). The press gate will open two hours prior to game-time. Access to the FleetCenter is obtained by sliding your media pass bar code through a swipe machine at the press gate entrance. All passes are coded to allow access for that event only. Celtics' season credentials will not allow access to any event other than a Celtics' game and the same is in effect for those holding a Bruins' credential. Single game passes are coded for that night's event only.

PRESS ROOM:

The press room consists of the dining facility and the working press area and is located on level three of the FleetCenter. After entering the building through the press entrance, proceed to the elevator to level three and the press room is straight ahead. Proper credentials are needed for admittance and a pregame meal. Food and beverage service will become available two hours prior to game time.

SEATING:

Media will be assigned seats at either courtside tables, end zone seat tables, or in the main press box (level nine). Media members are encouraged to write from all of these locations due to space restrictions in the working area of the press room. Jeff Twiss and David Zuccaro have the final say in all seating arrangements. Robin Dawson and Mike Swartz assist the PR staff as attendants in the halo seating area. The quarter play-by-play sheets and halftime box scores are distributed as quickly as possible to all locations and Stat Man monitors are available in selected locales. If any media person is seated in any location other than the assigned seat, that person will be asked to return to his/her seat; please avoid a potentially embarrassing situation.

LOCKER ROOM ACCESS:

The locker rooms are located on level three of the FleetCenter (court level), down the corridor from the press room. Season credentials will have locker room access. Single-game passes must have the locker room access card attached to the pass to allow for locker room entry. NBA media regulations govern the accessibility to the locker rooms prior to games. In accordance with NBA policy, both the Celtics' and visitors' locker rooms will be closed 45 minutes prior to game time and will re-open 10 minutes after the game. At no point are autographs to be asked of any personnel. Still photographers will not be permitted in any locker room.

POST-GAME COACHES INTERVIEWS ROOM:

The home coach will be available following each game in the coach's interview room located across the corridor between the Bruins' and the Celtics' locker rooms. The sound system in this room can also be heard in the press room and press box.

PRACTICES AT THE FLEETCENTER:

Access to any Celtics' practice held at the FleetCenter is through the same press gate entrance as on game nights. Season credentials will give you access to these practices as well. Those media members without season credentials should call the PR office the day before a practice to obtain a pass.

FLEETCENTER PARKING:

There is no reserved parking for a Celtics' game. There is a five-level, 1,150-space underground parking garage located directly under the FleetCenter and North Station. The parking lot is accessed via Nashua Street. Additionally, there is suitable parking available in the immediate area of the FleetCenter.

AUTOGRAPHS:

All requests for autographs for any team personnel must be directed to the Celtics' Community Relations Department. Any media member seeking to obtain autographs in the post-game locker room will have their credential revoked.

VISITORS:

There is no standing room in the FleetCenter. All entrants to the building must have either a ticket to the game or a pre-arranged assigned press box seat.

PLAYER WARMUPS:

No media member shall approach a player during pre-game warmups for any purpose. The floor is off-limits to media personnel during this period, a rule that will be strictly enforced. Players are available for interviews in the locker room during the accessed period. Television and radio interviews may be arranged through the Celtics' PR Department subject to timing and availability.

TICKETS:

Media members who wish to purchase tickets to any Celtics' home or road game are advised to request these tickets through the Celtics' PR personnel. All efforts will be made to fulfill each request; however, there is no guarantee that each will be realized.

TRAVEL ARRANGEMENTS:

All media members who wish to cover any Celtics' road game must notify the Celtics' PR staff by Friday of the preceding week. Unlike the past, the Celtics will not make any hotel reservations for travelling media.

Bob Cousy

BOB COUSY COLOR COMMENTARY, ROAD-TV

One of the most famous moments in basketball annals came March 17, 1963 during "Bob Cousy Day" held at Boston Garden. Cousy, trying to compose himself while giving an emotional speech, was honored in a very unique way as an awkward, almost tense, silence was broken when a fan in the Garden's upper balcony yelled an immediate classic: "We love ya, Cooz!"

For thirteen years, "the Houdini of the Hardwoods" was a dominant force in the league as he created a national stir in a sport suffering from minimum recognition in its infantile stages. He is the mold to which contemporary great point guards are compared. Bob was the leader of the Celtics' famous fast break and during his tenure from 1950-1963 was a member of six World Champions and 13 all-star berths. The recipient of many honors, Bob was elected to the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1970 and was named to the NBA's 25th Anniversary Team in 1970 and the league's 35th Anniversary Team in 1980. Among his many awards: league MVP in 1957, All-NBA First Team for ten straight years from 1952-1961, All-NBA Second Team twice (1962 and 1963), and the NBA All-Star Game MVP in 1954 and 1957. Bob led the NBA in assists eight times; in fact, for eight consecutive seasons ranging from 1953-1960.

In 924 regular season games, Cousy averaged 18.4 points, 7.5 assists, and 5.2 rebounds. In 109 postseason encounters, he collected 18.5 points, 8.6 assists, and 5.0 rebounds. He still owns the NBA single-game playoff records for most free throws made (30) and attempted (32) in a game against Syracuse played March 21, 1953.

He has been broadcasting Celtics' basketball since the 1974-75 season.

Born in New York, NY, he attended high school at Andrew Jackson in Queens and played four years of college ball at Holy Cross from 1946-1950 where he was a member of the 1947 NCAA Champions. Bob was drafted by the Tri-Cities Hawks in 1950, traded to the Chicago Stags for Gene Vance that same year, then became a Celtic (for $8,500, name drawn out of a hat) when the Stags' franchise folded.

After his incomparable playing career, Cousy served as a head coach in the collegiate and professional ranks. Commencing with the 1963-64 season and continuing through the 1968-69 campaign, Bob was the head coach at Boston College where his squads put together a successful stretch that included winning percentages of better than 80% in three of his final four seasons. Overall, those BC teams went 117-38 (.755) and that attainment helped launch a move into coaching the NBA's Cincinnati Royals.

Boston traded Cousy to Cincinnati for Bill Dinwiddie in 1969, when he briefly returned to playing. He appeared in 7 games as player-coach for the Royals during the 1969-70 season and coached the team that entire campaign through 22 games into the 1973-74 season - the team's second as the Kansas City-Omaha Kings.

Cousy became the first Vice-President and trustee of the Basketball Hall of Fame and later became the first hall member to serve as President (May, 1989). He was Commissioner of the American Soccer League from 1975-1980. In 1993, Cousy appeared in the movie "Blue Chips"; released the following year, the flick also starred the Orlando Magic's Shaquille O'Neal and veteran actor Nick Nolte.

Robert Joseph Cousy (8/9/28), and his wife Missy, live in Worcester, MA.

TOM HEINSOHN

COLOR COMMENTARY, HOME-TV; PLAY-BY-PLAY, ROAD-TV

Tom Heinsohn is successful and popular, a true representative of Boston Celtics' pride. His accomplishments as a player were recognized in the retirement of his number 15; he coached two Celtics' squads to NBA championships; and, he continues to flourish as the team's voice on all televised broadcasts.

He donned the Celtics' uniform from 1956-1965 and was a principal member of eight championship teams. Heinsohn was selected the NBA's Rookie of the Year in 1957, was a member of the All-NBA Second Team in 1961, 1962, 1963, and 1964, and was honored with six berths to the NBA All-Star Game.

A spectacular performer on the court, Tom was at his best when needed as he was the team's most proficient playoff scorer during four successful championship drives. He averaged 18.6 points and 8.8 rebounds in 654 regular season contests and 19.8 points and 9.2 boards in 104 post-season encounters. Heinsohn was elected to the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1985-86.

Four years after his retirement as a player, Tom was appointed the Head Coach of the Celtics. Like his playing career, Heinsohn's coaching tenure was punctuated by prosperity, as he directed the 1974 and 1976 squads to World Championship titles, won Atlantic Division crowns five times, was picked the league's Coach of the Year in 1973, and collected a 427-263 (.619) regular season record and a 47-33 (.588) playoff mark.

This is his 14th year broadcasting Celtics' basketball on SportsChannel; additionally, he has served as the team's play-by-play man for the past five seasons on their road outlets. Tom handled CBS' NBA coverage for seven years, and also did commentary for NCAA basketball for four years on CBS.

When Tom is not covering basketball, he is a chartered life underwriter with the Bostonian Group of Chestnut Hill, MA. An accomplished painter, Tom's works have graced art shows across the nation.

Thomas W. Heinsohn was born in Jersey City, NJ. He attended high school at St. Michael's in Union City, NJ, and college at Holy Cross. At HC, Tom averaged 22.1 ppg in 81 contests over four years. He was a territorial first-round choice of Boston in 1956.

Tom (8/26/34) and his wife Helen live in Newton, MA.

Mike Gorman

MIKE GORMAN

PLAY-BY-PLAY, HOME-TV

Boston Celtics' fans have been blessed with a fabulous tradition on the court and that excellence has trickled through to the broadcasting booth where Mike Gorman, an incisive play-by-play man with a wealth of basketball knowledge, begins his fourteenth year with the Celtics. The critically-acclaimed Gorman, a native of Dorchester, MA, has the enviable background of watching the dynasty-laden teams of the 60's.

His experience in broadcasting is extensive. Formerly, the Sports Director at WPRI-TV in Providence, Mike also served as the voice of the University of Rhode Island on WPRO-Radio. Mike later handled the play-by-play on television for the Providence Friars, and received the Associated Press award for his work in 1980.

During the 1980's, Mike was the primary announcer for ESPN's Big East Game of the Week. More recently, he has done college basketball for CBS, the 1992 Summer Olympics for NBC, and continues as the lead announcer for the Big East Television Network.

Mike and his wife Teri run KTM Productions in Providence where they live with their daughter Kristen.

Spencer Ross

SPENCER ROSS, PLAY-BY-PLAY, WRKO-RADIO

During a career of nearly three decades, the voice of Spencer Ross has entertained and informed sports fans in the New York area as well as nationally on CBS Radio and NBC. During his tenure with WCBS, Ross spent eight years announcing New York Jets Football, twice winning broadcast honors for best play-by-play man.

Ross has spent five seasons with the New Jersey Nets and was the voice for the original New York Nets in the ABA. Spencer also could be heard on New York Knickerbockers' radio. Celtics Executive Vice-President, Director of Basketball Operations, and Head Coach M.L. Carr is very familiar with Ross' work; "Spencer is a professional and comes to the Celtics with a lengthy background in the broadcasting business. He is a talented voice, one the fans throughout New England will appreciate. He has extensive knowledge of the game and his opinion is valued throughout the industry."

Ross took over as the television announcer of the New York Yankees in the mid-80's and won an Emmy in 1986. Vice President of American Radio Sports John Maguire sums it all up when it comes to Ross' arrival in Boston: "Spencer is a broadcast veteran and understands the pro game. He and Cedric Maxwell will give Celtics fans a dependable courtside presence."

Cedric Maxwell

CEDRIC MAXWELL, COLOR COMMENTARY, WRKO-RADIO

The 1980-81 Boston Celtics' squad was unique. Sure, they accomplished something thirteen prior Celtics' teams had done, win an NBA World Championship, but they possessed a particular charisma. This team included rookie Kevin McHale, sophomore Larry Bird, and first-year Celtic Robert Parish; other names familiar to basketball boosters included M.L. Carr, Nate Archibald, Chris Ford, Gerald Henderson, and Rick Robey. Then there was Cedric Maxwell, the loose-limbed, long-armed, rubberband man.

The perfect ingredient in a Celtics mix that won five division titles in six seasons from 1980-1985 and as magnetic personality as any who donned a uniform, Max was the MVP of the 1981 NBA Playoffs leading the Celtics past the Houston Rockets to the NBA Championship. In the six games against Houston, he averaged 17.7 points and 9.2 rebounds and grabbed 34 offensive rebounds. He was also a key contributor with the 1984 World Champs, which edged the Los Angeles Lakers in seven games.

A complete force, Max was a deadly offensive low-post player, leading the NBA in field goal percentage in 1979 and 1980. Also a tenacious defender, he often had the task of stopping the likes of Julius Erving, Jamaal Wilkes, and Marques Johnson when those players were at the pinnacle of their game.

The Celtics drafted Maxwell with the twelfth pick in the first round of the 1977 NBA Draft. Max played in 112 collegiate games and averaged 16.3 points and 10.0 rebounds for the University of North Carolina-Charlotte; he also shot 58.6% from the field. Named Most Valuable Player of the National Invitational Tournament as a junior, he set a tourney record for consecutive free throws made (20) in 1976. The following season, his 49ers squad surprised all by making the NCAA Final Four where they were eliminated on a buzzer-beater by eventual champ Marquette.

The well-liked Max developed an immediate following among Celtics fans as he was one of the few bright spots in the 1977-78 and 1978-79 seasons. In 1978-79, he averaged a career-high 19.0 points and the following season he led the NBA with a 60.9% field goal percentage which led the league and still is a Celtics' franchise-record. Max also holds Celtics' records for most free throws made (574) and attempted (716) in a season in 1978-79.

Max played in 835 regular season games and 102 post-season contests; of those, he played 607 and 88, respectively with Boston. He shot a team-record .559 (2,786-4,984) from the floor as a Celtic. In his career overall, Max shot .546 from the field and went to the line 4,592 times making 3,598 of those shots (.784). After the 1985 season, Max was traded to the Los Angeles Clippers, with a 1986 first-round draft choice, for Bill Walton. His playing career ended as a member of the Rockets after the 1987-88 campaign.

Maxwell was a college basketball color analyst for Raycom Sports covering the Metro Conference prior to his current appointment.

Cedric Bryan Maxwell (11/21/55) was born in Kinston, NC and attended that city's high school. He has a degree in Black Literature and Geography from UNCC.

Wilkins was immense in the frame as he posted 12 points and 7 rebounds. In the fourth, Orlando opened up an 89-83 lead until Douglas' 3-point field goal brought the home team within 3 with 4:34 to play. Another "3" by Douglas gave Boston a 91-90 lead with 2:36 remaining, but the Magic took the lead for good on Hardaway's slam dunk with 1:46 left. After O'Neal made one of two from the charity stripe with 1:08 remaining, Boston had a chance to tie when Wilkins was sent to the free throw line; after making the first, he missed the second following a timeout by Orlando with 16.2 ticks to play. Boston had the last possession, down by 3 after a pair of free throws by Grant, but Douglas' 3-point attempt was blocked with 6.9 left and another possession resulted in failure as time expired.
- 17 — Chris Ford was released as head coach.
- 18 — Chris Ford held his press conference.

June, 1995

- 7 — Jan Volk's contract extended. Stuart Layne was promoted to the position of Executive Vice-President, Marketing and Sales.
- 20 — M.L. Carr was appointed Head Coach. John Kuester was added as an assistant coach.

July, 1995

- 13-20 — Boston was to participate in the 1995 Doral Arrowwood Rookie Summer League; however, due to the NBA lockout that commenced July 1, all basketball operations were suspended until a new collective bargaining agreement was reached. The lockout included: cancellation of all payments due to players for the 1995-96 season; prohibition of all negotiations and contract signings; cancellation of all summer leagues, tryouts, and team sponsored off-season games; shutting of all team training facilities; and termination of all benefits.

September, 1995

- 12 — Players voted 226-134 in favor of keeping the union in an election that also served as a referendum on the new six-year Collective Bargaining Agreement. The votes were cast at NLRB offices August 30 and September 7 and were counted publicly at the NLRB office in New York. A total of 369 players cast ballots (226 yes, 134 no, 8 unresolved challenges, and 1 void), a figure which represented 90% of all eligible voters.

NOTE: In some instances, when a player appeared with two or more teams in the same year, his stats were not separated by team. In those cases, only his Celtics' games played stat was recorded while a note related to the other team for which he appeared is also mentioned. An example of this is Bill Roberts who played in 50 games in 1950-51, 26 for Boston, 22 for St. Louis, and 2 for Chicago.

FACTS ABOUT THE PARQUET FLOOR

The parquet floor will be making the transition from the Boston Garden into the FleetCenter — the Celtics' new home. The parquet floor is the focus of fascination for many fans and the following is a sampling of the questions that tend to be asked:

Q. Is this the same floor that was used from the original days of the Celtics?

A. In 1946, Celtics Owner Walter Brown planned a basketball floor to be built in Boston Arena (presently Boston University's Walter Brown Arena) where the Celtics played home games along with Boston Garden. Pieces of the floor have been replaced over the years; however, some of the pieces may be the same as used in 1946 when the floor was originally built.

Q. How was the floor built?

A. It was built in 1946 of hardwood, from a forest in Tennessee, originally used to build barracks during World War II. The cost was in the $10,000-$11,000 range. The floor was manufactured because of a shortage of materials following World War II. This shortage caused the East Boston Lumber Company to construct the floor from scraps, fitting them together in an alternation pattern. The original parquet floor was moved from Boston Arena to Boston Garden in December, 1952.

Q. How many squares of parquet are used and what are the dimensions?

A. The parquet floor has 247 panels, each approximately 5'-by-5' and 1 1/2" thick. The panels are held together by wood planks and brass screws, with the help of 988 bolts. The floor is pieced together in two and 1/2 hours by a group of men known as the "Bull Gang."

Q. How many bolts does it take to secure the floor?

A. There are 988 bolts used.

Q. Where are the dead spots?

A. From Red Auerbach: "The parquet floor is synonymous with the Celtics. It is a good floor, a very good floor. The so-called dead spots on the floor? If teams felt it was a poor floor, I used it for an advantage by playing with their minds. That usually worked. When teams did beat us on the rare occasion, they never complained. The strange thing was that there were more dead spots in old Madison Square Garden than in Boston. Believe me, I played and coached there on many occasions; I know."

Q. When was the logo put at center court?

A. 1973.

Q. What about the resurfacing of the floor?

A. It was laid in 1946, and has been resurfaced several times including 1972, 1993, and in 1995 when the floor was moved into the FleetCenter.

*Number retired in his honor

†Name retired in his honor

Of the 260 players to have worn a Celtic uniform during a regular-season or playoff game, each bird's jersey number has been recorded here except the following (where research has failed). In order of season: Earl Shannon, 5 games, 1948-49; Ward Gibson, 2 games, 1949-50; Bob Houbregs, 2 games, 1954-55.

Notes:

Sometimes the same number was worn by more than one player during a season. Occasionally, for a variety of reasons including lost baggage, a player wore a different number for a game or two. No effort has been made to compile those exceptions.

CELTICS SELECTED TRANSACTIONS

- 04/25/50 Ed Macauley selected from the St. Louis Bombers in the dispersal draft.
- 10/xx/50 Bob Cousy, who was drafted by Tri-Cities but refused to play for them, had his rights traded to the Chicago Stags for Gene Vance. The Stags almost immediately folded operations. Less than a month prior to the season opener, Cousy was selected by Boston. Celtics' owner Walter Brown had the first pick in this special lottery involving the Stags three top players, but passed. Next up: New York's Ned Irish, who drew Max Zaslofsky. Then Philadelphia's Eddie Gottlieb selected Andy Phillip. The third and final name in Syracuse owner's Danny Biasone's hat was Cousy. Commissioner Maurice Podoloff devised the concept of placing the three player names in a hat with affixed price tags: $15,000 on Zaslofsky; $10,000 on Phillip, and $8,500 on Cousy.
- xx/xx/51 Fort Wayne traded Bill Sharman (acquired by the Pistons from the Washington Capitols in the dispersal draft) as the player to be named later in an earlier deal that sent Bob Harris and $10,000 (later used by Boston to purchase Bob Brannum from Sheboygan) for the NBA rights to Charlie Share. Sharman, who played baseball, was chosen by the Pistons as the player to be named later because they thought he would select baseball over basketball. It was announced October 14th that Sharman turned down an offer to play baseball in Cuba; he signed with Boston the same day.
- 11/28/53 Milwaukee traded Jack Nichols for five draftees: Fred Eydt, John Azary, Paul Estergaard, Tom Lillis, and J.C. Maze.

- 05/20/74 Steve Kuberski selected by New Orleans in the expansion draft.

ALL-TIME HIGHS & LOWS

All records are regular season only, and do not include those games played before the inception of the 24-second shot clock in 1954-55. Due to incomplete information, some records are left as unofficial; in these instances, highest and lowest possibilities are noted based on NBA records (for example, Boston's best 3rd quarter output is listed as 49 but could be as high as 50 or as low as another 49). These extremes are factual due to various research.

CELTICS HONORED PLAYERS

TOP EFFORTS

The following figures are career-highs of all players who have had their numbers retired by the Celtics. The figures include high games with members of other organizations. Bob Cousy's, Ed Macauley's and Bill Shuman's totals are incomplete due to lack of data; those marks are represented with asterisks. Jim Loscutoff has the nickname "Loscy" etched in the rafters rather than his number 18 which was kept active while Dave Cowens played. The first lines are regular season highs; the lines below are post-season highs.

HARTFORD CIVIC CENTER

The Boston Celtics played 66 regular season games in the Hartford Civic Center dating back to January 18, 1975 when they beat the Houston Rockets 123-101. The Celtics finished at 46-20 in those 66 games, and sold out the Civic Center 34 times including 17 consecutive occasions from February 23, 1986 through March 4, 1991. The Celtics played three games in each season starting in 1974-75 with the following exceptions: 5 in 1975-76, 6 in 1976-77, 2 in 1979-80, and 5 in 1980-81; the Green was scheduled to play 6 games in 1977-78 but the last three were canceled due to the collapse of the Civic Center's roof. The last game was played April 15, 1995 when Boston pounded the Detroit Pistons 129-104.

After an apparent tranquility, Osterkorn took exception to an Ed Macauley remark leading to a more volatile brawl than the preceding one. Policemen and building security were called to disarm the troops. Two Nats, Schayes and Paul Seymour, left the game with injuries caused due to the fight.

At one point, the Garden fans pounded Rodgers before police intervened.

- 04/13/57— The Boston Celtics won their 1st NBA title in seven games by edging the St. Louis Hawks 125-123 in 2 OT's at Boston Garden. Tom Heinsohn had 23 rebounds and 37 points to offset Bob Pettit's 39 points. Bill Sharman, who missed shots at the end of regulation and the first overtime, and Bob Cousy combined to shoot just 5-40 from the field in 106 minutes played (Cousy appeared in 58); Bill Russell had 32 rebounds in 54 minutes. The winning basket was made by Frank Ramsey with 1:12 left, as the game featured 38 lead changes, 28 ties, and a unique final play by St. Louis' player-coach Alex Hannum. With Boston leading by 2 points in the concluding seconds, Hannum, in his lone game of the series, planned to bounce the pass off the backboard with the hope that Pettit could tip it in. The former part of the plan worked, but the shot rolled off the rim.
- 04/15/65— As announced by Johnny Most: "Havlicek stole the ball." John Havlicek stole Hal Greer's inbounds pass intended for Chet Walker, which enabled the Boston Celtics to defeat the Philadelphia 76ers 110-109 in the seventh game of the Eastern Division Finals at Boston Garden. Sam Jones, the recipient of Havlicek's steal, led all with 37 points. Prior to the steal, Bill Russell's attempted inbounds pass hit a guy wire, which gave the Sixers the ball down by one point with five seconds to play.
- 04/18/62— The Boston Celtics won their 5th NBA title 110-107 in overtime against the Los Angeles Lakers. Boston, who had rallied from a 3-2 deficit, were led by Bill Russell's 40 rebounds and 30 points in 53 minutes. Frank Selvy's famous missed shot occurred in this game. At the end of regulation, the Lakers guard missed at the buzzer and enabled the Celtics to eventually prevail in OT. The score was tied at 100 when Selvy missed an open 12-foot baseline jumper as the ball hit the rim, skipped across the open hole, and fell off to the delight of the Boston Garden faithful. Elgin Baylor had 41 points and 22 rebounds for the losers.
- 04/19/68— The Boston Celtics dethroned the reigning NBA Champion Philadelphia 76ers 100-96 in the Spectrum. Seven Celtics scored in double figures as Boston won the last three games of the seven game series, to become the first team ever to accomplish that feat.
- 04/20/73— The Boston Celtics lost in Boston Garden 98-91 to the New York Knicks in the third game of the Eastern Conference Finals as John Havlicek hyperextended his right shoulder fighting through a Dave DeBusschere pick. The star did not return until the fifth game at much less than 100%.

- 04/24/83— During an on-court fight which cleared both benches, Tree Rollins of the Atlanta Hawks bit Danny Ainge on the palm side of the right index finger. This third and clinching game was played in front of a nationally televised audience as the Boston Celtics won 98-79. Fourteen members of the Hawks and Celtics were fined $150 apiece for leaving their benches. Rollins was fined $5,000 and suspended without pay for the first five games of the 1983-84 season and Ainge was fined $1,000. Mike Glenn and Ainge were both ejected from the game; the NBA later stated that Glenn's ejection was a mistake.

- 04/26/64— Despite 30 points and 27 rebounds from Wilt Chamberlain, the Boston Celtics thrilled their Boston Garden fans with a 105-99 win over the San Francisco Warriors in the fifth game of the NBA Finals. The win provided Boston with their 7th NBA title. Bill Russell had 26 rebounds and Tom Heinsohn added 19 points in Frank Ramsey's and Jim Loscutoff's career finale.
- 04/26/91— Despite missing seven of the last eight regular season games, and being held to limited practice time in that span due to back spasms, Larry Bird scored 21 points with 12 rebounds and 12 assists in leading the Boston Celtics to a 127-120 win over the Indiana Pacers at Boston Garden in the first game of their best-of-five series.
- 04/28/66— Red Auerbach retired as coach of the Boston Celtics after guiding them to their 8th consecutive title and 9th total, a 95-93 triumph over the Los Angeles Lakers (in Boston Garden) in the seventh game of the 1966 NBA Finals. Auerbach coached Boston to nine NBA World Championships, the most any coach has won (second on the list is John Kundla with five). Bill Russell compiled 32 rebounds and 25 points.
- 04/28/90— The Boston Celtics set a playoff scoring record by routing the New York Knicks 157-128 to take a 2-0 lead in their first round series. Boston set many team records including a league best .670 (63-94) field goal percentage.
- 04/28/91— Chuck Person set an NBA record with 7 3-point field goals made in the Indiana Pacers 130-118 win in Boston Garden. The win tied the best-of-five series at one game apiece, as Person ended the afternoon with 39 points.
- 4/29/73— The Boston Celtics lost the seventh game of the Eastern Conference Finals 94-78 to the New York Knicks at Boston Garden. Boston had trailed 3-1 in the series.
- 04/29/69— Sam Jones connected on a last second shot which gave the Boston Celtics an 89-88 win at Boston Garden over the Los Angeles Lakers. Emmette Bryant stole the ball with seven seconds left. After a timeout, John Havlicek passed the ball to Jones, who launched an off-balance 18-footer; the ball hit the rim twice before falling and the series was tied at 2 games each.
- 04/29/93— Reggie Lewis collapsed with 6:26 left in the first quarter of Boston's 112-101 Game One win vs. Charlotte. He returned to the game with 3:21 remaining in the first quarter and was replaced 1:04 later. After sitting out the entire second quarter, Lewis returned in the third quarter before being replaced at the 5:45 mark.
- 04/30/95— In arguably their biggest upset win in the franchise's storied history, the Boston Celtics rebounded from a 47-point clubbing for a 99-92 win over the top-seeded Orlando Magic in Orlando Arena. The Magic entered the game with a 40-2 home record in regular season and playoff games combined. Sherman Douglas was phenomenal with 15 assists and 20 points (7 assists in the first quarter, 10 at the half; both fell one shy of team records), Dominique Wilkins collected 24 points and 7 rebounds, Dee Brown 21 points and 8 rebounds, Dino Radja returned to a starting role and added 18 points and 8 rebounds, and Pervis Ellison added 10 points off-the-bench. After Orlando led 61-56 midway through the third quarter, Boston ended the frame with a 17-11 run to take a 1-point lead into the fourth where Brown tallied 11 points and Douglas 7 to lead the team to triumph. The Celtics did not trail after falling behind 16 seconds into the final frame; the go-ahead basket was made by Wilkins with 11:25 to play in the contest. Orlando shot 17.4% in the final quarter (4-for-23) compared to 62.5% (8-for-13) for Boston.

- 05/03/81— The Boston Celtics wiped out a double digit deficit in the second half for the third straight game and defeated the Philadelphia 76ers 91-90 in the seventh game of a memorable Eastern Conference Finals series. The Sixers led 89-82 with 5:23 remaining, but scored only one point in committing five turnovers and missing six shots in that stretch drive.
- 05/05/69— Bill Russell and Sam Jones ended their Boston Celtics careers with a 108-106 seventh game victory over the Los Angeles Lakers to give Boston its 11th NBA World Championship in 13 years. While Russell played all 48 minutes and accounted for 21 rebounds and 6 points in bowing out as a player-coach and Jones added 24 points before fouling out, it was a Don Nelson basket that finally secured the win. With little more than a minute left, after the Lakers pared the Celtics lead from 17 to 1, and with the 24-second clock winding down, Nelson's desperation 15-footer hit the back of the rim, bounced straight up about three feet, then dramatically dropped straight through the basket to give Boston a three point lead. The victory spoiled Lakers owner Jack Kent Cooke's premature celebration plans which included a marching band and balloons prominently exhibited from the rafters.
- 05/05/81— The Boston Celtics defeated the Houston Rockets 98-95 in Game One of the 1981 World Championship in Boston Garden. Larry Bird connected on one of his most famous shots ever—a flying followup that he converted from his right-hand to his left hand (it would be close to impossible for him to have converted the shot from his right hand) in mid-air, with his momentum taking him out of bounds, of his missed shot. The shot supported Boston to the win, as they were down at the time of the shot. Bird collected 21 rebounds and 18 points.
- 05/05/82— In a double OT contest, the Boston Celtics eliminated the Washington Bullets 131-126 in Boston Garden. The Celtics won the series 4-1 in games.
- 05/05/91— In dramatic fashion, Larry Bird, after a post-fourth game challenge to his hometown fans, delighted the faithful with a mid-third quarter return after a serious fall with 4:23 remaining (Boston led 48-46) in the second quarter. Bird's face made contact with the floor resulting in a bruise under the right eye, and a return unknown. Then in Superman-like custom, Bird charged out of the locker room resulting in mass delirium. After he re-entered the game with 6:46 left in the third quarter and Boston leading 73-71, the Celtics then went on a 39-25 run before Indiana nearly made a miraculous comeback by cutting Boston's lead to 122-121 with 3.4 seconds left. Boston barely held on to win 124-121, clinching the best of five series 3 games to 2 over the Indiana Pacers. Little-used Derek Smith made his first major impact as a Celtic with 12 points in 22 minutes, while playing tenaciously on the defensive end.
- 05/05/93— The Boston Celtics devastating season ended in controversial style as the Charlotte Hornets eliminated the Green 3-1, 104-103. The Celtics made one of the greatest comebacks in league history, down 88-70 after three, to take a 103-102 lead with 42.7 seconds left; but a backcourt violation by Rick Fox with 21.9 seconds remaining gave the Hornets the ball. After a missed shot, Charlotte retained possession when the ball went out-of-bounds of a Celtics' defender. Alonzo Mourning then hit a 21-footer from the top of the key for the win with .4 seconds left despite .9 seconds showing on the clock. Kevin McHale, in his last game ever, then threw a perfect inbound pass to Dee Brown who nearly completed a miraculous finish. What could have been a foul or goaltending went uncalled.
- 05/05/95— In what would be the last basketball game played in the hallowed structure of Boston Garden, the Orlando Magic eliminated the Boston Celtics 3 games to 1, 95-92 in front of consecutive sellout number 661. Boston's Dominique Wilkins tallied 22 points and 18 rebounds, while Sherman Douglas totalled 21 points. Orlando, which led by 8 at the half and by as many as 10 in the third quarter, trailed 72-71 late in the same quarter thanks to a 16-6 run; Orlando led 73-72 after three. Wilkins was immense in the frame as he posted 12 points and 7 rebounds. In the fourth, Orlando opened up an 89-83 lead until Douglas' 3-point field goal brought the home team within 3 with 4:34 to play. Another "3" by Douglas gave Boston a 91-90 lead with 2:36 remaining, but the Magic took the lead for good on Anfernee Hardaway's slam dunk with 1:46 left. After Shaquille O'Neal made one of two from the charity stripe with 1:08 remaining, Boston had a chance to tie when Wilkins was sent to the free throw line; after making the first, he missed the second following a timeout by Orlando with 16.2 ticks to play. Boston had the last possession, down by 3 after a pair of free throws by Horace Grant, but Douglas' 3-point attempt was blocked with 6.9 left and another possession resulted in failure as time expired.

- 05/06/86— The Boston Celtics eliminated the Atlanta Hawks four games to one, 132-99 in Boston Garden. The Celtics dominated the third quarter 36-6, holding the Hawks to an all-time low quarter point production in a playoff game. In the implausible frame, Boston outscored Atlanta 34-3 at one stretch including a 24-0 run in the last 5:17 of the quarter. Boston, which led 66-55 at the half, entered the fourth quarter with a commanding 102-61 advantage.
- 05/06/90— The New York Knicks concluded an improbable comeback by winning the last three games of a best-of-five series, 121-114 in Boston Garden.
- 05/08/92— Reggie Lewis scored 13 of his 36 points in the fourth quarter of Boston's 110-107 win vs. Cleveland. Boston led the series 2-1; they lost in 7 games.
- 05/09/81— The Boston Celtics beat the Houston Rockets 94-71 in the third game of the NBA Finals. The Rockets 71 points matched the NBA Finals low set by the Syracuse Nationals in 1955. Houston's 30 first half points were a record low as well.
- 05/09/82— The Boston Celtics defeated the Philadelphia 76ers 121-81 in Boston Garden. The series opener is Boston's largest margin of victory in any playoff game.
- 05/10/74— Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's spectacular 15-foot sky-hook from the right corner with three seconds remaining in the second overtime gave the Milwaukee Bucks a 102-101 victory over the Boston Celtics in the sixth game of their title series. Abdul-Jabbar's basket gave him 34 points in the contest, spoiling John Havlicek's magnificent corner shot over the Bucks star center with eight seconds left that gave Boston a one point lead.
- 05/10/92— Out of the lineup since April 3 due to back pain, Larry Bird returned to the squad with Boston up 2-1 in their Eastern Conference Semifinals series against Cleveland; however, the Cavaliers won on the road 114-112 in overtime despite a career-high 42 points from Reggie Lewis. Bird scored 4 points in 17 minutes.
- 05/11/88— In Boston's Game One win vs. Atlanta (110-101), Larry Bird led the way with 24 points in one quarter in Boston Garden.
- 05/12/74— The Boston Celtics won their 12th championship with a 102-87 victory at the Milwaukee Bucks in the seventh game of a tremendous series. A sag defense frustrated Kareem Abdul-Jabbar as he is shut out for a pivotal 17:58 stretch from late in the first period to early in the third period in which Boston established a 17 point lead. Tom Heinsohn won the first of his two titles as a head coach.
- 05/13/84— Boston defeated New York 121-104 in Game 7 played in Boston Garden.
- 05/14/81— Larry Bird scored 27 points and Cedric Maxwell added 19 to lead the Boston Celtics to a 102-91 conquest over the Houston Rockets. Boston won their 14th title in six games.
- 05/17/87— The Boston Celtics overcame a game Milwaukee Bucks team 119-113 in the seventh game of their Eastern Conference Semifinals series at Boston Garden. Milwaukee led by one point entering the final quarter, but Larry Bird scored 13 of his 31 points in the decisive frame. The Bucks, leading 108-100, were 0-for-10 from the floor in the final 5:25 of the game, scoring just 3 points. Danny Ainge was rendered unavailable for the final 16:43 because of a right knee injury, but replacement Jerry Sichting singled the Bucks with two key hoops during Boston's rally.

- 05/17/91— For the first time since 1982, the closing game of a series involving the Boston Celtics went to an overtime period, as the Celtics fell to the World Champion Detroit Pistons 117-113 at Auburn Hills. Despite playing without an injured Robert Parish (sprained left ankle), the Celtics miraculously fought back from an 80-65 deficit with 2:47 left in the third; a lineup of McHale-Bird-Pinckney-Brown-Lewis played without a substitute for all but the final 12 seconds of OT. With 58 seconds left in regulation, a Kevin McHale tip-in was denied by referee Jack Madden due to offensive interference, although replays showed otherwise (the score was tied at 103 at the time). McHale ended the night with 34 points, Joe Dumars with 32 (25 in the first half). It was the first time since 1952 that the Celtics were eliminated from the post-season picture in an overtime game.
- 05/18/81— "Moses eats ....," utters Larry Bird at the team's victory parade.
- 05/19/82— The Boston Celtics defeated the Philadelphia 76ers 114-85 in the fifth game of the Eastern Conference Championship behind a strong defensive effort which forced the Sixers to 33% shooting from the field.
- 05/22/88— In the seventh game of the Eastern Conference Semifinals won 118-116 by the Boston Celtics, the Celtics and Atlanta Hawks shot a combined .588, the second highest mark in play-off history. Larry Bird and Dominique Wilkins performed marvelously, as Bird scored 34 points (15-24, 1-3, 3-3) including 20 in the 4th quarter (9-10 field goals) and Wilkins scored 47 points (19-33, 1-2, 8-9) including 16 in the final frame. In the famous fourth quarter, the teams shoot 72% (Boston 12-15 fgs, Atlanta 14-21) from the floor in Boston Garden.
- 05/23/76— Dave Cowens dominated the opener of the NBA Finals with 25 points and 21 rebounds as the Boston Celtics defeated the Phoenix Suns 98-87.
- 05/23/82— The Philadelphia 76ers pulled off a rare seventh game victory in Boston Garden, beating the Boston Celtics 120-106 in the Eastern Conference Finals.
- 05/23/87— Larry Bird and Bill Laimbeer were ejected for fighting in the third game of the Eastern Conference Finals at Detroit. Bird was fined $2,000 and Laimbeer $5,000. The Boston Celtics lost to the Detroit Pistons 122-104.
- 05/26/87— In one of the most famous plays in basketball history, Larry Bird stole Isiah Thomas' inbound pass with 5 seconds remaining and fed the ball over his shoulder to a cutting Dennis Johnson for the winning basket in the Boston Celtics 108-107 win over the Detroit Pistons in the fifth game of the Eastern Conference Finals. The game also featured Robert Parish's skirmish with Bill Laimbeer. For throwing punches, Parish was fined $7,500 and suspended for the next game. The fine was the second largest in league history, behind Kermit Washington's $10,000 setback (also a 60-day suspension for his actions against Rudy Tomjanovich in 1977).
- 05/26/88— Exactly one year after the buzzer-beating Larry Bird-Dennis Johnson hook-up, Kevin McHale connected on a three-point field goal with 5 seconds remaining in the first overtime of the Boston Celtics eventual 119-115 double overtime victory over the Detroit Pistons in the second game of the Eastern Conference Finals.
- 05/27/85— Scott Wedman shot 11-for-11 from the field, an NBA Finals record, as the Boston Celtics routed the Los Angeles Lakers 148-114 on Memorial Day. Boston's 148 points, 62 field goals made and .608 team shooting also set Finals records.
- 05/30/87— Five offensive rebounds led to a Danny Ainge three point field goal with three minutes to go as the Boston Celtics rallied to beat the Detroit Pistons 117-114 in the seventh game of the Eastern Conference Finals. Ainge also made an 18-footer with 25 seconds left to make it 108-105. With 8 seconds left in the third quarter and Detroit leading 80-79, Adrian Dantley and Vinnie Johnson collided sending Dantley to the hospital with a concussion.

- 05/31/84— With the Boston Celtics an apparent loser, Gerald Henderson stole James Worthy's inbounds pass to Byron Scott with 13 seconds left in the fourth quarter to tie the game at 113. The Celtics eventually won the second game 124-121 in overtime to tie the series at 1 game apiece. Uncharacteristically, Magic Johnson dribbled out the final seconds of the fourth quarter before finally passing to Bob McAdoo, whose shot was taken after the buzzer sounded. Scott Wedman's jumper with 14 seconds left gave Boston a 122-121 lead, and a Robert Parish steal from McAdoo after that protected Boston's victory.
- 06/04/76— Jo Jo White scored 33 points in 60 minutes as the Boston Celtics outlasted the Phoenix Suns 128-126 in triple-overtime. The fifth game win gave Boston a 3-2 lead and featured many highlights including John Havlicek's running banker which gave Boston a 111-110 lead with 1 second remaining in the second overtime. That play was immediately followed by Paul Westphal's timeout with his knowledge that the Suns had none remaining; because of this, Boston was given a technical foul shot, which White converted, but allowed the Suns to inbound the ball from center court rather than under their own defensive basket. Gar Heard's improbable 22-foot launch at the buzzer tied the score at 112 and sent the game to a third overtime session, where little used Glenn McDonald, replacing Paul Silas who fouled out, attained instant hero status by scoring six crucial points in the decisive drive.
- 06/05/85— Dennis Johnson's buzzer-beating jumpshot gave the Boston Celtics a 107-105 win at the Los Angeles Lakers to tie the NBA Finals at 2 games apiece.
- 06/05/86— Ralph Sampson was ejected for fighting, mainly with Jerry Sichting, but the Houston Rockets won the fifth game of the NBA Finals 111-96 at Houston.
- 06/06/76— Charlie Scott's 25 points paced the Boston Celtics to an 87-80 sixth game win at the Phoenix Suns, marking the franchise's 13th title in history.
- 06/06/84— The Boston Celtics beat the Los Angeles Lakers in overtime 129-125 at the Forum to tie the NBA Finals at two games apiece. M.L. Carr's key steal – and eventual dunk – of James Worthy's inbounds pass with six seconds left in the extra frame secured the win. Other highlights of this fourth game: Larry Bird's 21 rebounds and Kevin McHale's take-down of Kurt Rambis.
- 06/08/84— With the temperature inside a crazed Boston Garden reaching 97 degrees, the Boston Celtics defeated the Los Angeles Lakers 121-103 in the fifth game of the NBA Finals. Larry Bird had 34 points.
- 06/08/86— Larry Bird's 29 points, 12 assists, and 11 rebounds helped the Boston Celtics beat the Houston Rockets 114-97 to wrap up their 16th NBA title. Bird also won the playoff MVP for the second time in three years.
- 06/11/87— Five Boston Celtics players reached the 20 point figure, led by Dennis Johnson's 25, to tie an NBA Finals record. Boston beat the Los Angeles Lakers 123-108 at Boston Garden in the fifth game.
- 06/12/84— Cedric Maxwell had 24 points, 8 rebounds, and 8 assists and the Boston Celtics outbounded the Los Angeles Lakers 52-33 in a 111-102 seventh game victory at Boston Garden. The Celtics, winners of their 15th NBA title, were the guests of President Ronald Reagan at the White House a day later.
